Anti-Vaccination.
The truth of the matter is that there is a very serious difference of opinion upon the question of vaccination. While it is undoubtedly true that the vast majority of the medical profession still believe in and practice vaccination, there is a constantly growing body which is bitterly opposed thereto. Leading cities of the world have their Anti-Vaccination Societies, and among their membership are numbers of reputable physicians. In England and in Belgium vaccination is no longer compulsory—so the opinion there must have changed considerably.

There are two sides to this question. The Anti-Vaccination Societies present some marvellously strong arguments—illustrations and facts to show that vaccination is more of an evil than a blessing.—Sacramento Bee.
